

Are meal-time speakers prohibited?

Last Revised: November 11, 2011

No they are not prohibited. Working and learning through meal time is an efficiency often included in bona fide CME activities.

Related Topics: Criterion 8 [1] Standards for Commercial Support [2] Standard 3: Appropriate Use of Commercial Support [3] Standard 3.11 [3]

Source URL: <http://www.accme.org/ask-accme/are-meal-time-speakers-prohibited>

Links:

[1] <http://www.accme.org/requirements/accreditation-requirements-cme-providers/criteria/criterion-8>

[2] <http://www.accme.org/about-us/accountability-to-the-public/standards-commercial-support>

[3] <http://www.accme.org/requirements/accreditation-requirements-cme-providers/standards-for-commercial-support/standard-3>